My fellow Commissioners and I are truly delighted that you have joined us for this historical dedication of the seventh national presidential memorial in our nation’s capital — and the first of the 21st century.

Born in Denison, Texas, and raised in Abilene, Kansas, Eisenhower, commonly known as “Ike”, learned the meaning of hard work by selling home-grown vegetables and working twelve-hour, six-day shifts at the local creamery to finance his brother’s college education. Eisenhower carried these basic values, Kansas values, throughout his life.

His work ethic helped earn a spot at the United States Military Academy. West Point’s class of 1915, often referred to as “The Class the Stars Fell On,” was comprised of 164 cadets. Of 164, 59 rose to the rank of General. Eisenhower earned five-star general rank.

Eisenhower is remembered for his exceptional military professionalism and his inspiring leadership of millions of soldiers, sailors, and airmen.

On May 8, 1945, General Eisenhower accepted the unconditional surrender of Nazi Germany. You can imagine his pride in returning to his hometown in 1945 and stating, “The proudest thing I can claim is that I am from Abilene.”

In his Second Inaugural Address he stated, “We look upon this shaken earth, and we declare our firm and fixed purpose — the building of peace with justice in a world where moral law prevails.” His passionate belief in peace, freedom, and democracy inspired the creation of a legacy of incredible military and civilian achievements. During his two terms, he ended the Korean War, established the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, enacted the Interstate Highway System, signed legislation improving social and economic welfare, admitted Alaska and Hawaii to the Union, and enacted the Civil Rights Act of 1957. Soon after, he sent troops from the Army’s 101st Airborne Division to Little Rock’s Central High School to ensure support of desegregation and obedience to the rule of law.

America traversed numerous national and international milestones — his presidency participating in the twilight of the American Frontier and ushering in the dawn of space exploration.

Surrounded by the sculptures of General and President Eisenhower in the shadow of the tapestry depicting Normandy’s coastline in peacetime, let us all be reminded of the lifelong dedication to service Eisenhower made to our nation, of the soldier turned General who led us to victory in World War II, of the 34th President who accomplished extraordinary achievements, and of the young boy from Abilene, Kansas, who dared to dream.

Chairman’s Welcome

Chairman’s Welcome

Senator Pat Roberts, Chairman
Dwight D. Eisenhower Memorial Commission
The First Lady and I are honored to join you in celebrating the dedication of the Eisenhower Memorial.

From our Nation’s earliest days, the United States and our citizenry have been inspired and strengthened by the contributions of exceptional and selfless leaders. The name “Eisenhower,” in particular, fills the patriot’s heart with pride and is an enduring stamp of American greatness. Deeply committed to the principles of liberty and democracy, General Eisenhower received the trials of history with courage and purpose. Braving wars and contending fearless armies, while later leading our country at home, Dwight D. Eisenhower’s vision for a brighter future was rooted in, and ultimately supplied, our Nation’s ever-expanding path toward greater justice and freedom.

Today’s ceremony and the monument that has been erected commemorate the life and legacy of a noble general and titans of leadership. Starting at the storied United States Military Academy at West Point, Eisenhower dedicated his life to the service of our country. Later, as Supreme Allied Commander during World War II, he decisively directed his troops to sustain the beaches of Normandy, forever shifting the tide of world history in favor of freedom. As President of the United States, he worked tirelessly to pursue peace and prosperity for generations of Americans to enjoy. He laid down the iron fist of law and justice when African American students were intimidated by mobs as they tried to go to school in Little Rock, Arkansas, ordering Federal troops to provide support and order. To ensure American dominance into the future, he launched the American conquest beyond the skies and into space. His legacy leaves an indelible mark on our Nation’s history and is synonymous with America’s emergence as a global leader in the 20th century.

As we celebrate the dedication of the Eisenhower Monument, we pay tribute to his extraordinary influence on our American way of life. The First Lady and I thank those who worked hard to bring this project to fruition and send our very best wishes to all those who come to see it in the future.

Signed
The tide has turned! The free men of the world are marching together to victory!

General Dwight D. Eisenhower
D-Day address to troops, June 6, 1944
BARACK OBAMA

September 17, 2020

I am delighted to join in the celebration of the dedication of the Dwight D. Eisenhower memorial. Ike’s life was an extraordinary example of patriotism, humility, and service to others.

As General, he led our troops on a campaign to liberate a continent and rid the world of fascism.

As President, he connected a country and reached for the stars, paving the way for decades of economic growth. And while he passed away just a few months before the first Americans from the space program he created would land on the moon, it was his vision and his leadership that made that moment possible, and inspired generations of Americans to follow.

For Dwight Eisenhower understood what all great citizens understand—that it’s our job to leave this country in a better place than where we found it. That’s why we still celebrate and define the adventure in free government of which he spoke—“to keep the peace, to foster progress in human achievement, and to enhance liberty, dignity and integrity among peoples and among nations.”

I offer my best wishes for today and for all who will visit this living monument in the future. May we all strive to live a life like his.

GEORGE W. BUSH

Greetings to those gathered for the dedication of the Dwight D. Eisenhower Memorial.

In the Oval Office, I kept busts of leaders who inspired me. I often looked at that of five-star general and President, Dwight D. Eisenhower. And I thought about the calm confidence and skilled determination with which he led, both as Supreme Commander of the Allied Expeditionary Force during World War II and as President. He was committed to preserving our peace and prosperity, protecting our freedoms, and promoting equality and the civil rights of all Americans. Our country’s respect for this great man has only increased with the years. I’m grateful that this special place of remembrance will serve as a permanent reminder of the lasting impact President Eisenhower made on the country he loved—and the world he helped save.

Laura and I appreciate all those who have worked hard to make this memorial a reality. Thank you for helping to preserve the legacy of our country’s 34th President and honor his service to America.

We send our best wishes for a memorable and meaningful celebration. May God bless you, and may God continue to bless America.
...the proudest thing I can claim is that I am from Abilene.

General Dwight D. Eisenhower
Homecoming Speech, Abilene, Kansas, June 22, 1945
I am delighted to join in commemorating the dedication of the Dwight D. Eisenhower Memorial.

President Eisenhower was the first president I was really aware of growing up. His life of service to our country—from his pivotal role in the Allied victory in World War II, to his eight years in the White House—was an inspiration to me as I followed his reelection campaign when I was in elementary school.

As president, his greatest achievements reflected the vision, values, and aspirations of a country pushing forward towards a future with greater opportunity for all—including building the Interstate Highway System, investing in the space program, and signing the National Defense Education Act, based on the idea that education is key to national security.

As Commander in Chief in the early days of the Cold War, he worked to build a bipartisan foreign policy that contained communism and maintained our security. He also recognized how difficult it would be to preserve our constitutional democracy over the long haul. He did his part by sending federal troops to enforce the Supreme Court’s order to integrate Little Rock Central High School in my home state, and to protect the brave students who were doing it.

I was proud to sign the bill authorizing the Dwight D. Eisenhower Memorial into law when I was president, and I want to thank David Eisenhower and the members of the commission for their efforts in shepherding this well-deserved tribute to fruition.

Best wishes to those who are gathered in celebration today. I hope everyone who will visit this Memorial in years to come will be inspired to follow President Eisenhower’s example and do their part to build our future, protect our people, and preserve our democracy.

Sincerely,

Rosalynn and I are pleased to join you in celebrating today’s opening of the Dwight D. Eisenhower Memorial. As Supreme Commander of the WWII Allied Expeditionary Force and 34th US President, Eisenhower still serves as an extraordinary role model.

His D-Day invasion of Normandy was the turning point of WWII, resulting in its end in less than a year. As First Supreme Commander of NATO, he reinforced the confidence of a war weary Europe, convincing them to build up their defenses to prevent further Soviet threats. Following his tenure with NATO, Eisenhower launched his bid for a successful eight years as United States President. His service in the White House was highlighted by his plans to use atomic energy for peaceful purposes, the creation of the Interstate Highway System, the signing of the 1967 Civil Rights Act, the formation of NASA, and the statehood of Alaska and Hawaii.

This memorial is a fitting tribute to one of America’s most deserving great heroes.

Sincerely,

[Signature]
Mission

The Dwight D. Eisenhower Memorial Commission was created by Congress in 1999 by Public Law 106-79. The Commission’s congressional mandate was to establish an appropriate, permanent national memorial to Dwight D. Eisenhower. The enabling legislation dictates that a memorial should be created to perpetuate Eisenhower’s memory and his contribution as the Supreme Commander of the Allied Forces in Europe during World War II and as the 34th President of the United States.

About the Memorial

Located at the base of Capitol Hill, the Dwight D. Eisenhower Memorial is surrounded by the U.S. Department of Education, the Federal Aviation Administration, Voice of America, and the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services — all institutions to which Eisenhower was closely connected. Together, these buildings demonstrate Eisenhower's broad promotion of improved national infrastructure, the foundation upon which he worked to build "a peace with justice in a world where moral law prevails." At the center of the site is the contemplative memorial space where Eisenhower's legacy unfolds. Heroic-sized bronze sculptures, stone bas reliefs, and quotations from his most famous speeches and addresses celebrate Eisenhower's contributions to our nation as Supreme Commander of the Allied Expeditionary Force in World War II and as the nation's 34th President.

Eisenhower was the 34th President of the United States during a unique time when the United States emerged onto the global stage. Through self-sacrifice, dedication, and belief in the American spirit, Dwight D. Eisenhower truly and positively shaped our nation in countless ways.

A life-sized sculpture of young Eisenhower and an inscription excerpted from his “Abilene Homecoming Speech” connect with Eisenhower's personal story as a humble citizen, raised in America's heartland, and welcomes visitors as they enter the memorial at the northwest plaza.

The memorial is framed by a unique transparent tapestry which features an image of France's Normandy coastline made from artistically woven stainless steel cable. The iconic Pointe du Hoc landmark featured in peacetime symbolically represents the peace Eisenhower won as Supreme Commander of the Allied Expeditionary Force in World War II, and the peace he kept and nurtured as the 34th President during a unique time when the United States emerged onto the global stage.

As the philanthropic partner of the National Park Service dedicated to restoring, enriching, and preserving the National Mall, the Trust will help oversee the maintenance and volunteer programs of the new Eisenhower Memorial. The Trust accepts private donations to support the long-term maintenance of this and other memorials, and its volunteer programs and educational opportunities, to ensure that the National Mall endures and evolves as a vibrant space for all.

The Eisenhower Memorial is the first national presidential memorial to incorporate a digital complement — the E-Memorial — to convey Eisenhower’s accomplishments to a 21st-century audience. Through dramatic storytelling, the E-Memorial engages visitors in the Eisenhower story, demonstrating why his memory and legacy require a memorial.

Included in the E-Memorial are educational resources offering cross-curriculum and primary source materials. Free downloadable lesson plans accommodate state and national teaching standards. An interactive timeline provides a superior educational experience for a tech-savvy generation of teachers and students.

The Dwight D. Eisenhower Memorial Commission has partnered with the Eisenhower Foundation in Abilene, Kansas, — an organization deeply committed to Eisenhower’s legacy. The Foundation is dedicated to ensuring the E-Memorial resources remain available to the public following the Commission’s sunsetting. To support the future of the E-Memorial, visit EisenhowerFoundation.net.

Seven Pivotal Moments, designed to chronicle the events and milestones that served as turning points in Eisenhower’s life, were chosen as the entry portals to the Eisenhower legacy. Each Pivotal Moment features an original short film with an interactive exploration of complementary stories told through historic archival media.

1. WEST POINT, 1911
   A Life In Service To His Country
   At age 20, Eisenhower left his hometown of Abilene, Kansas, for the United States Military Academy at West Point, the first step in what was to be a long and distinguished military and political career.

2. D-DAY 1944
   The Decision That Changed The World
   As the Supreme Commander of Allied Forces during World War II, Dwight D. Eisenhower changed the course of history by launching the D-Day invasion of France, undertaking “operations for liberation of Europe from Germans.”

3. NATO, 1951
   A Coalition United For Peace
   As the first Supreme Allied Commander of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, Eisenhower accepted the challenge to preserve peace at home and abroad in the Cold War era.

4. WINNING THE PRESIDENCY, 1952
   Daring All For Our Country
   Eisenhower’s landslide victory in securing the presidency placed him at the forefront of one of the most challenging eras of U.S. history, guiding the nation and the world through dangerous and unsettling times.

5. WAGING PEACE, 1953
   Fighting To End All War
   In the first year of his presidency Eisenhower delivered his renowned cry for the end to war: His “Chance for Peace” speech would be a commitment for a brighter future.

6. LITTLE ROCK, 1957
   The Civil Rights Battleground
   Eisenhower acts to enforce the rule of law by sending federal troops into Little Rock, Arkansas, where a violent mob has prevented the integration of Central High School and the state of Arkansas refused to implement federal law and court rulings.

7. SPACE RACE, 1958
   Launching America’s Era of Space Exploration
   Only months after the news of the Soviet Union’s first satellite launch, Eisenhower put the first U.S. satellite into orbit, setting in motion the unprecedented feats NASA continues to achieve today.

SENATOR PAT ROBERTS | Chairman

U.S. Senator Pat Roberts is a Kansan through and through. He was born in Topeka and went on to earn his journalism degree from K-State. He served in the U.S. Marine Corps and is the most senior Marine in the Congress. He always puts Kansas’ needs and concerns front and center in his public service career. For 16 years, he represented the Big First District, including his home of Dodge City, in the U.S. House of Representatives. Roberts is currently serving his fourth Senate term. He led post-9/11 and Iraq War intelligence reforms as Chairman of the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence from 2002-2006. He is currently the Chairman of the Senate Committee on Agriculture, Nutrition and Forestry and is the first member of Congress under the modern committee structure to chair both the Senate and the House Agriculture Committees. Roberts’ father, C. Wesley Roberts, was Chairman of the Republican National Committee when Eisenhower was elected President. Roberts is also proud to serve as Chairman of the Dwight D. Eisenhower Memorial Commission, working to complete a national memorial to honor Dwight D. Eisenhower and inspire future generations with his leadership, integrity, life-long work ethic, and his total devotion to the values and processes of democracy.

REPRESENTATIVE MIKE THOMPSON | Vice Chairman

Mike Thompson represents California’s 5th Congressional District which includes all of Napa and parts of Contra Costa, Lake, Solano and Sonoma Counties. He was first elected to Congress in 1998. Prior to serving in Congress, Representative Thompson represented California’s 2nd District in the California State Senate. Thompson was the first Vietnam veteran elected to the California State Senate. He served in combat with the U.S. Army as a staff sergeant/platoon leader with the 173rd Airborne Brigade and was also an instructor at the Army’s Airborne School. He is currently co-chair of the Military Veterans Caucus. The Congressman is Chair of the House Gun Violence Prevention Task Force and a member of the powerful House Committee on Ways and Means. He is also a member of the Blue Dog Coalition which is composed of Democrats committed to fiscal responsibility and bipartisan problem-solving. Thompson is the co-founder and co-chair of the bipartisan Congressional Wine Caucus. He is also a member and former co-chair of the Congressional Sportsmen’s Caucus. Thompson is a small vineyard owner and has taught Public Administration and State Government at San Francisco State University and California State University, Chico.
FIRST INAUGURAL ADDRESS
Washington, DC | January 20, 1953

We must be ready to dare all for our country. For history does not long entrust the care of freedom to the weak or the timid. We must acquire proficiency in defense and display stamina in purpose. We must be willing, individually and as a nation, to accept whatever sacrifices may be required of us. A people that values its privileges above its principles soon loses both. *Patriotism means equipped forces and a prepared citizenry. Moral stamina means more energy and more productivity, on the farm and in the factory. Love of liberty means the guarding of every resource that makes freedom possible — from the sanctity of our families and the wealth of our soil to the genius of our scientists. And so each citizen plays an indispensable role. The productivity of our heads, our hands and our hearts is the source of all the strength we can command, for both the enrichment of our lives and the winning of the Peace. * This is the hope that beckons us onward in this century of trial. This is the work that awaits us all, to be done with bravery, with charity and with prayer to almighty God.*
Humility must always be the portion of any man who receives acclaim earned in the blood of his followers and sacrifices of his friends. Conceivably a commander may have been professionally superior. He may have given everything of his heart and mind to meet the spiritual and physical needs of his comrades. He may have written a chapter that will glow forever in the pages of military history. Still, even such a man — if he existed — would sadly face the facts that his honors cannot hide in his memories the crosses marking the resting places of the dead. They cannot soothe the anguish of the widow or the orphan whose husband or father will not return. The only attitude in which a commander may with satisfaction receive the tributes of his friends is in the humble acknowledgment that no matter how unworthy he may be, his position is the symbol of great human forces that have labored arduously and successfully for a righteous cause. Unless he feels this symbolism and this rightness in what he has tried to do, then he is disregardful of the courage, the fortitude, and the devotion of the vast multitudes he has been honored to command. If all allied men and women that have served with me in this war can only know that it is they whom this august body is really honoring today, then indeed I will be content. ♦ No petty differences in the world of trade, traditions, or national pride should ever blind us to our identities in priceless values. If we keep our eyes on this guidepost, then no difficulties along our path of mutual co-operation can ever be insurmountable. Moreover, when this truth has permeated to the remotest hamlet and heart of all peoples, then indeed may we beat our swords into plowshares and all nations can enjoy the fruitfulness of the Earth.
Because no man is really a man who has lost out of himself all of the boy, I want to speak first of the dreams of a barefoot boy. Frequently, they are to be of a street car conductor or he sees himself as the town policeman, above all he may reach to a position of locomotive engineer, but always in his dreams is that day when he finally comes home. Comes home to a welcome from his own home town. Because today that dream of mine of 45 years or more ago has been realized beyond the wildest stretches of my own imagination, I come here, first, to thank you, to say the proudest thing I can claim is that I am from Abilene.
TOMAS OSINSKI | Tapestry Artist
An artist, architect, and industrial designer, Tomas Osinski has collaborated with Frank Gehry on many projects, including the Delft porcelain fountain at the Disney Concert Hall in Los Angeles. Osinski was born in Poland and attended the Visual Art High School in Warsaw. He subsequently obtained a Master's Degree in Industrial Design from the Academy of Fine Art, also in Warsaw. Osinski's art has been featured in individual shows in Warsaw, Poznan, London, Lodz, and Los Angeles and collected by The Museum of Contemporary Art, Los Angeles; The Museum of Contemporary Art in Lodz, Poland; and by several private collectors.

SERGEY EYLANBEKOV | Sculptor
Sculptor Sergey Eylanbekov made the sculptures that constitute an integral part of the memorial core. The sculptures were designed by the sculptor in consultation with Gehry. Eylanbekov, a world-renowned sculptor, was born in Russia. He attended Moscow School of Fine Arts and was then accepted into the prestigious Surikov Academy of Fine Arts, from which he graduated with honors. During the tumultuous period of change that occurred in the 1980s during the Gorbachev era, Eylanbekov decided to start life over in the United States, becoming a U.S. citizen. In the past twenty years, his artwork has garnered praise all over the world.

NICK BENSON | Inscription Artist

ROBERT WILSON | Thematic Artist
Since the late 1960s, Robert Wilson's productions have decisively shaped the look of theater and opera. Through his signature use of light, his investigations into the structure of a simple movement, and the classical rigor of his scenic and furniture design, Wilson has continuously articulated the force and originality of his vision. Wilson's close ties and collaborations with leading artists, writers, and musicians continue to fascinate audiences worldwide.

FRANK O. GEHRY | Memorial Designer
In a competitive process under the guidelines of the General Services Administration’s Design Excellence Program, renowned architect Frank Gehry was selected to design the Eisenhower Memorial. Raised in Toronto, Canada, Frank Gehry moved in 1947 with his family to Los Angeles where he subsequently received his Bachelor of Architecture degree at the University of Southern California in 1954. Upon graduating, he enlisted in the U.S. Army and with the assistance of the GI Bill, he studied City Planning at the Harvard University Graduate School of Design until 1957. Since then, Gehry has built an architectural career that has spanned over six decades and he has produced public and private buildings throughout the world. His work has earned Gehry several of the most significant awards in the architectural field, including the Pritzker Prize.

Throughout America’s adventure in free government, our basic purposes have been to keep the peace; to foster progress in human achievement, and to enhance liberty, dignity and integrity among people and among nations. A vital element in keeping the peace is our military establishment. Our arms must be mighty, ready for instant action, so that no potential aggressor may be tempted to risk his own destruction.

This conjunction of an immense military establishment and a large arms industry is new in the American experience.

We recognize the imperative need for this development. Yet we must not fail to comprehend its grave implications. In the councils of government, we must guard against the acquisition of unwarranted influence, whether sought or unsought, by the military-industrial complex.

Akin to and largely responsible for the sweeping changes in our industrial-military posture, has been the technological revolution during recent decades.

It is the task of statesmanship to mold, to balance, and to integrate these and other forces, new and old, within the principles of our democratic system — ever aiming toward the supreme goals of our free society.

We pray that all peoples will come to live together in a peace guaranteed by the binding force of mutual respect and love.
