President Obama Joins Memorial Advisory Committee

The Commission welcomes the latest member to the Eisenhower Memorial Advisory Committee – 44th President of the United States, Barack Obama. The Advisory Committee consists of dozens of distinguished Americans, including all five former U.S. Presidents, who are dedicated to ensuring that a national memorial honoring Eisenhower is constructed in Washington, D.C.

Salute to Ike's Supporters
This week the Commission is delighted to announce receipt of two gifts. One from Gettysburg College at the I Like Ike giving level and the second from the First National Bank of Hutchinson at the Founders giving level.

We extend our deepest appreciation to all of our donors for their generous contributions in support of Ike's memorial. Donations from our supporters make it possible for us to move ever closer to completing construction on the National Eisenhower Memorial in the heart of our nation's capital.

Donate now at Pay.Gov to make an online contribution and join the many patriotic Americans, multi-national corporations, foreign nations and elementary school students in honoring this great American, Dwight D. Eisenhower.

All donors are prominently recognized on our Virtual Donor Wall.

Eisenhower Institute Legacy Story
Unveiled on the E-Memorial

We are excited to share with you the Eisenhower Institute at Gettysburg College story, the second of six to be unveiled on the Legacy Organizations segment of the E-Memorial website.

Grounded in President Eisenhower's visionary leadership and commitment to service, the Institute's programs promote nonpartisan discourse and foster critical analysis of important issues. With locations in both Gettysburg and Washington, D.C., the Institute is a window to the world, facilitating students’ immersion into national and global affairs. Visit the E-Memorial Legacy

With the guidance of the E-Memorial design team, Local Projects, the Commission is committed to sharing the unique histories and ongoing missions of the six Eisenhower legacy organizations. Each organization was either directly created or inspired by Eisenhower during his lifetime and is dedicated to perpetuating his legacy. Combined, they serve as the "living memorial" to the champion of peace. Stay tuned as we roll out the remaining organizations' stories in 2018.

Ike's Timeless Legacy

On December 8, 1953, President Eisenhower delivered his famous "Atoms for Peace" speech to the United Nations General Assembly, in which he advocated for the peaceful development of nuclear energy and called for an international effort to "harness the atom for man's good." Outlining the potential for massive destruction posed by a world of hostile nuclear powers, Eisenhower called for immediate steps toward a “new climate of mutually peaceful confidence” for the benefit of humanity. The speech opened the debate over the control of nuclear science and technology to the public for the first time. Four years later, the International Atomic Energy Agency was created as an outgrowth of Eisenhower's proposal for an international body to regulate and promote the peaceful use of atomic energy.

Trivia Answer: Army Chief of Staff General George Marshall summoned Eisenhower to work in the War Plans Division in Washington. General Marshall first tasked Ike with the responsibility of creating plans for the Pacific theater, but two months later promoted him to Chief of the War Plans Division, during which time he set about drafting a basic strategy for defeating the Axis powers. Eisenhower’s time in the WPD, in close proximity to General Marshall, was formative in the latter’s appointment of Ike to senior command posts later in the war. Note General George Marshall’s added note to Eisenhower on the bottom of Roosevelt’s letter (above).
